

Interactive comment on “The “Business-As-Usual” growth of global primary energy use and carbon dioxide emissions – historical trends and near-term forecasts” by A.
Jarvis and C. N. Hewitt

J. C. Hargreaves (Editor)

jules@blueskiesresearch.org.uk

Received and published: 11 December 2014

Dear Andy,

I look forward to receiving a substantially revised manuscript from you in due course.

Just one point... I normally expect to see some indication of the basic statistical significance on plots showing the frequency deconstruction of a time series. Typically these are results from identically processed artificial time series like white noise or red noise. Including such analyses in the figures would (I think) make the significance (or otherwise!) of the results much more apparent.

C623

jules

Interactive comment on Earth Syst. Dynam. Discuss., 5, 1143, 2014.