

Interactive comment on “Ideas: a simple proposal to improve the contribution of IPCC WG1 to the assessment and communication of climate change risks” by Rowan T. Sutton

R. Sutton

rowan.sutton@ncas.ac.uk

Received and published: 31 July 2018

I fully agree with these comments. In particular, I share the concern that if WG1 does not more effectively address the key issues of concern to policy makers than its relevance will diminish, potentially quite rapidly. I also agree that the common misconception that a "conservative" approach to assessing risks is the only one consistent with scientific rigour is a significant barrier to making improvements to the assessment process.

Interactive comment on Earth Syst. Dynam. Discuss., https://doi.org/10.5194/esd-2018-36, 2018.

Printer-friendly version

Discussion paper

