Dear Hunter Cutting,

this is a scientific journal and has to keep this standard. It is not for the general discussion. Your comment does not include the full reference of the paper that you refer to and can thus not be accounted for.

Thank you for your understanding and please do not comment on a scientific paper in a scientific journal if you are not a scientist.

The qualification of being a scientist is proven by a PhD thesis which has either been completed or us being prepared under supervision by a professor.

Best wishes, Anders Levermann
